Key words: Sport for All, SWOT analysis, strategy

Abstract: The analysis was made following the feasibility studies proposed to improve people’s health, to raise life quality, to provide an alternative for young generation (fight against drugs and social relationships). Suceava needs a medium and long term strategy to develop the Sport for All program.

Introduction

Practicing motrical activities leads to a number of beneficial effects within each individual: positive image of oneself, fine perception of internal and external information, positive emotions related to movement, desire for lifelong physical movement (playful, sports activities).

The analysis was made following the feasibility studies proposed to improve people’s health, to raise life quality, to provide an alternative for young generation (fight against drugs and social relationships). Suceava needs a medium and long term strategy to develop the Sport for All program.

The European Sports Charter defines Sport as “all forms of physical activity which, through casual or organized participation, aims at expressing or improving physical fitness and mental well-being, forming social relationships or obtaining results in competition at all levels”.

All documents signed by EU Sports Ministers emphasizes the role of “involvement of the public authorities (central and local public authority) in supporting sports activities, under the laws and ordinances drafted in accordance with UN and UNESCO regulations”.

Material-method

Sport for All means:

- aims, motivations, needs, interests leading to joy, pleasure, relationship, relaxation, recreation, companionship, health;
- means and forms consisting of games, competitions and exercises with flexible rules and practice of several disciplines; the existence of heterogeneous groups;
- rules of participation refer to accessibility for everyone, no matter the age or the education level, to the possibility to behave freely, conditioned on anonymity;
- its consequences and results are intended for individual, personality development, encouraging spontaneity, creativity, relationships, solidarity.

To highlight the area of human motricity field, in the structure of motrical activities there are, theoretically, leisure activities. (Dragnea A., Bota A., 1999):

The SWOT analysis on Sport for All program in Suceava

Strengths
- large number of school, high school and university population (10,000 students and 35,000 schoolchildren and highschool students);
- relatively large number of active population: institutions, schools, one university, banks, enterprises, small and medium enterprises (SMEs);
- relatively large number of pensioners (third age population);
- medium standard of culture and life, nationally estimated;
- accessible and pleasant characteristics of the physical activity, which is perceived at a superior level by the population;
- possibility of extending the offer of sports services to the population;
- existence of a cooperation tradition between the Suceava City Hall, the Local Council of Suceava Municipality, the Sports Directorate of Suceava County, sports clubs, NGOs for organizing sports activities.

Weaknesses
- negative natural growth;
- large discrepancy between the number of sports activities and other forms of leisure (bars, discos, restaurants);
- lack of coherent and coordinated programs for attracting people to practice organized physical exercises;
- lack of media involvement;
- insignificant support from the local budget due to small fees of local companies in these programs.

Opportunities
- recover people’s financial resources;
- promoting Sport for All programs nationwide, helped by media, local authorities involving local companies in carrying out these programs.

Threats
- low interest for sports activities due to the lack of offers;
- increasing the number of alcoholics and smokers due to the dissapereance or dilution of Sport for All programs.
Strategy
- Developing a feasibility study for one health path in each district of Suceava City (short term) – costs, location.
- Developing a feasibility study to build tracks in parks for mountain – bike, wheels (medium term) with completion in 4 – 5 years.
- Individual sports do not enjoy much attention from sponsors, so must be supported with priority by the budget.
- Establishment of street areas for sports (street ball).
- Diversification of sports in Suceava: Sport for All activities and professional sports activities.
- Achieving an annual calendar of sporting events through partnerships between Suceava Municipality and sports clubs.
- Each school should have its own sports association or affiliate to another association, to record members paying a membership fee which is used for modernizations, investments.
- Organizing an event for promoting sports, combating inactivity through which sports clubs become known (increasing their potential of attracting new financial resources) and recruit professional athletes, but also amateurs concerned about their health.
- Sports clubs to present their schedule on the City Hall website (days, hours, age, number of weekly sessions).

Discussions
The analysis was made following the feasibility studies that were proposed in order to bring major benefits to people’s the health, raise the quality of life, provide an alternative for the young generation (the fight against drugs) and establish relationships. Costs can be reduced through land leasing and partnership agreements.

In conclusion, Suceava needs a medium and long term strategy to develop Sport for All programs.
